Lincoln's Plan of Campaign in the War. (Col. Alexander K. McClure in McClure's Magazine for February.]

On the night after the battle of Bull Run Lincoln sought no sleep, but after gathering all the information that he could as to the situation he devoted the hours of early morning to formulating a plan of military opera-tions, and it is marvelous how do sely that programme was followed in the long and bloody years through which the war was fought to its consummation. This was Lin-coln's first distinct assumption of the duties of commander-in-chief.

of commander-in-chief.

He wrote out in pencil, with his own hand, memorans directing that a blockade should be made effective as soon as possible; that the volunteer forces at Forress Monroe be constantly drided and disciplined; that Baltimore be held with a firm hand; Patterson's forces be strong bened and made secure in their position; that the forces of West Virginia continue to act under orders from Medicalinthat Gen. Fremont push forward his work in the West, and especially in Missouri; that the Army of the Potomac be reorganized as rapidly as possible on Arlington Heights; and that new volunteers be brought forward speedliy into camps for instruction.

This paper bears date July 23, 1851, and on the 27th of July he added to it that when the foregoing shall have been substantially attended to, Manassas Junction and Strausburg should be served and permanently held, with an open line from Barper's Ferry to Strausburg, and a joint movement from Cairo on Memphia, and from Cincinnati on East Ten-nessee, should be promptly organized. This was Nr. Lincoln's first acceptance of the necessity that called him to exercise his duties as commander-in-chief, and it will be observed. that his plan of campaign fully comprehended the altuation and the military necessities which arose thereafter.

(Saturday) the committee exhausted the supply received from the Evening Star pound party. An effort was made to distribute them as equally as possible, considering the work done by each of the organizations.

"We find the system alopted by this committee of referring all cases to the accusies appointed, working very nicely and relieving us of much embarrassment. The committee has adopted a form, that we fill up daily as cases are reported to us, and refer them to the agencies for examination and assistance if deemed worthy. The examinations have been made promptly, and we believe the cases were relieved at once.

"Our committee has been asked by Mr. Sylvester, who has charge of the police fund, to notify your committee that for the present, with the limited amount of funds on hand, he proposes to buy fael and bread only. The recommendation seems to us, in the present emergency, to be a good one and worthy of adoption.

"Mr. John F. Seitt, of 1033 New York avenue, has made an offer to supply us with bread at 2 cents a loaf in quantities of 500 per day for a period not to exceed thirty days. To do this would require a fund of $10 a day, which we think can be readily collected. One of the great obstacles in the way of the success of the arrangement is the expense of distributing the collection boxes and seeing that the collections are made daily and returns sent in. The audience was apparently evenly divided on the question consequently the argumentative bits of each side received a generous share of applause. The affirmative of the subject was presented by Messrs, W. H. Mixon, C. M. Lane, and B. M. Doyle; the negative by Messrs. Seth E. Traey, H. C. Evans, and Affred S. Dalton. Mrs. H. B. F. Maefarland, from the com mittee on canvassing, said that of the flfty-four sub-divisions there were only seven of which there were not yet chairmen. She was quite sure, however, that by to-morrow all of these positions would be filled by volunteers. Mr. Walter C.
